

CIBO in Sri Lanka

On recent visits CIBO Board Member Anne Evans helped train preschool teachers and discovered ways for CIBO schools to help rebuild schools.

Adopt a Preschool in Sri Lanka – From CAS students to preschoolers, CIBO schools can join the International Baccalaureate Tsunami Relief Fund and help turn rubble into school buildings and disaster into hope. These photos were taken 6 months after the disaster; students are not back in school, schools are not supplied, teachers need training and the adults need a livelihood and housing. CIBO is engaged in Sri Lanka and has a shopping list of necessities for the schools. Schools may choose to partner with a sister school, or to donate to CIBO's tsunami relief fund. Funds will go towards bringing a livelihood for village women, sending CIBO teachers as volunteer trainers or bringing teacher trainers here to California to take PYP training and tour facilities here. We also have a long shopping list for the schools: books, paper, pens, soccer balls, fixing holes in the roof, brooms, garbage cans.

Email Anne Evans for information: annemarieev@mac.com. Discover how your school can join the effort.

Preschool Supplies: all the supplies the school owns.

Parachutes bring smiles despite conditions.